

Anil Ramgotra is a Manitoba-based drummer currently studying jazz performance at Brandon University with experience in a variety of styles. Anil wears his influences on his sleeve, bringing his love for metal music into nearly all his musical endeavors, while still learning from eclectic styles including jazz, classical, pop, and others he encountered as a child like Sikh worship music and Caribbean dancehall. These styles developed the basis for his musical identity before he began drum lessons at the age of nine with Winnipeg-based drummer Cody Iwasiuk. Anil is currently studying with Eric Platz, Marika Galea, Greg Gatien, Leanne Zacharias, and more. Anil has played with school ensembles throughout high school at Glenlawn Collegiate and while studying at Brandon University, performing at festivals including the Rocky Mountain Music Festival and Brandon Jazz Festival. Outside of school, Anil is known to record and perform with Winnipeg-based singer-songwriter Ethan Lyric.
